Dear CCT Friends,

As we approach our 30th year of serving Boston’s nonprofits, we thank you for the time, expertise and support that has made CCT possible!

We’d like to begin by celebrating the success of 2018. Last year, CCT volunteers worked with leaders of 11 high-impact nonprofits with impressive results. Volunteer satisfaction continued to be strong, with the key motivating factor being the desire to give back – and they did just that! Post-project client interviews were overwhelmingly positive with regard to both deliverables and impact. In addition to addressing the needs of the 2018 clients, we also focused on the sustainability of our own organization. We looked closely at our structure and made improvements to ensure that we are positioned to meet a growing need for CCT’s services in the years ahead.

We also celebrate all we have accomplished over our 29-year history. We have collaborated with more than 700 volunteers to advise 180 nonprofit organizations. Each of these organizations serves hundreds to thousands of individuals or families. By partnering with our clients to address their critical strategic challenges, we are pursuing our goal of strengthening the greater community.

Looking to the future, we recognize these are particularly challenging times for the nonprofits making such a tremendous difference in our community. The services that CCT provides are more timely and important than ever. Because of you, CCT will continue to fulfill its mission of amplifying the impact of Boston-area nonprofits.

With Gratitude,

Gabriele Loebbert
Carolyn McGuire
2017-2018 Co-Chairs

www.cctboston.org
The Volunteer Experience:
“I felt an itch to give back to the broader community. CCT invited me to participate in something important and rewarding to help an important Boston nonprofit. I was rewarded by being part of an engaged team of like-minded people and a feeling that we could make a difference. The weekly meetings kept us coordinated and on track and gave us a wonderful way to build connections and friendships. But the real payoff was seeing how well our work resonated with the nonprofit client. We were thrilled to see them making improvements based in part on our work. Sign me up again!” – Ted S., new volunteer

“It is fulfilling to be able to hit the ground running with my business experience and make a real contribution. The icing on the cake is that you can make meaningful contacts with team members, clients and interview subjects around the US. On my latest project, the client immediately began using the differentiators we developed and their clients agreed that they truly were different and better than their nearest competitor – that warmed my heart and I knew we had made a real difference to a client who is making a difference in the lives of children.”

– Sarah S., first-time Project Manager

Project Managers make it happen!
CCT’s project managers are highly committed to CCT’s best practices. They develop a deep understanding of their client’s mission and challenges. They guide their teams to deliver results and strive for creating a fun and rewarding experience for their fellow volunteers. We are tremendously grateful for their dedication and enthusiasm.

2018 Project Managers:
Aish Agrawal (2)            Jennifer MacIntyre (5)
Sarah Aspinwall (2)         Sarah Murphy (1)
Jeffrey Caplan (2)          Peer Nielsen (2)
Christina Cramton (1)       Janet Razulis (4)
Nicole Gilmore (1)          Sarah Schott (1)
Andrew Hunter (4)           Bill Sones (3)
Peter Ingram (1)            Jill Tsakiris (1)*
Bruce Jones (4)             David Wong (2)
Candace Kidston (4)         Miao Yu (2)
Luciano Lauretto (4)        Melissa Zilinski (1)

( ) indicates the number of projects led
*Jill led several projects before we started tracking in 2004

What our Clients Say:
“A game changing event for us; it has provided the fuel we need to make changes” – Open Table

“We have already begun to refocus our communications and marketing pieces to reflect learnings from this project” – Boston City Singers

“Based on the team’s recommendations, we changed our program name, and our bookings for next year quadrupled in a couple of weeks” – MITS

2018 Financial Statement
CCT volunteer leaders and team members receive no compensation. By carefully controlling expenses, CCT provided over 10,000 hours of high-quality consulting services with just $19,550 in funding.

CCT Expenses
Information Technology $ 6,576
Kick-Off & Wrap-Up Events 6,808
Insurance 2,712
Support of Volunteer Consultants 1,923
Recruitment of Volunteer Consultants 508
Printing & Mailing 793
Support of Board 230
Total $19,550

www.cctboston.org